Berlin Attacked in Daylight

ANOTHER RAID ON BUCHAREST

A FORCE of 2,000 Allied bombers and fighters flew over Berlin in daylight yesterday morning and attacked targets in the city and elsewhere in Germany. It was the second time in eight days that a daylight attack was made on the capital, and the German News Agency stated that damage and casualties among the civil population were caused.

Bucharest, the capital of Rumania, was bombed at the same time, and many targets in France and Belgium were attacked during Saturday and Sunday.

A report from Headquarters United States Strategic Air Forces in Europe last night stated: "Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the U.S. 8th Air Force in very great strength attacked targets in the Berlin area and in the Munster-Osnabruck area to-day. One heavy bomber division reported sighting enemy fighters which avoided combat. Destruction of two enemy aircraft was reported.

"Broken clouds were encountered en route, and a solid overcast was found over the targets themselves. Bombing was done by instruments and results were unobserved. Flak ranged from meagre in some sectors to very intense in the target areas. Eight bombers and five fighters are missing from the attacks on Germany."

The German News Agency said last night: — "American bomber formations took advantage of bad weather all over Northern Europe to launch another terror attack on Berlin this morning. Without ground visibility the Americans dropped many bombs on the city area of Berlin.

"Damage and casualties among the civil population were caused. The German A.A. defences were considerably hampered by several layers of cloud over North Germany."

NIGHT ATTACKS

A British Air Ministry report yesterday stated:—"On Saturday night aircraft of Bomber Command made a heavy attack on the important railway yards at Nantes, some 30 miles north-west of Paris. Other forces attacked ammunition dumps at Aubigne-Racan, about 25 miles north-west of Tours, and Sable-sur-Sarthe, about 30 miles south-west of Le Mans. The objectives were clearly identified, and bombing was well concentrated.

"Attacks were also made on Ludwigshaven and objectives in western Germany. Mines were laid in enemy waters. Five of our aircraft are missing."

Though there were some interceptions, especially near Aubigne and Nantes, says the British Air Ministry News Service, the main fighter packs did not succeed in reaching the bombers. Those night fighters who did arrive at Nantes—not until after the attack had started—were extremely persistent, and pursued the bombers on the way home. One followed a Lancaster half-way across the Channel.

Beating off determined attacks by German fighters after their bomb-run, Marauders of the 9th Air Force yesterday flew their deepest penetration of the war into the Continent to strike at the German railway centre at Mezieres-Charleville, 135 miles inside France, states A.E.A.F. Simultaneously smaller forces of Marauders attacked the railway yards at Aerschot and Malines, in Belgium.

Without loss 8th Air Force Liberators on Saturday bombed military installations in the Pas de Calais area

Thunderbolt fighter-bombers of the 9th Air Force crossed the Channel repeatedly yesterday to strike at scattered targets in France and Belgium, states A.E.A.F. Railroad yards at Namur, in Belgium, were dive-bombed by Thunderbolts early in the afternoon, with pilots reporting hits on rolling-stock and engine-sheds. Earlier Thunderbolts dive-bombed an ammunition factory, a storage warehouse, and two bridges at Vernon and Nucte-Fassi-court in France, while other Thunderbolts blasted railway bridges crossing the Seine at Orival and Oissel, near Rouen. The ammunition plant was bombed from deck level. Four direct hits sent debris 3,000 feet into the air. Hits were scored at the junction of bridge and shore at Orival, and bombs tore up railway tracks at Oissel.

FIRES IN BUCHAREST

As the Americans bombed the German capital, heavy bombers of the M.A.A.F. were bombing the main railway yards of the Rumanian capital of Bucharest, which had been attacked by bombers during the previous night. Paris Radio said that heavy damage was done in the raid, and Reuter's special correspondent at Mediterranean headquarters reported that fires and explosions were caused. Air battles took place against defending aircraft.

Another formation of Fortresses attacked the Belgrade-Pancevo railway bridge, which is on the only artery open to Sofia, on the Orient express route. The Bucharest railyards are on the north-west side of the city, and are the terminus for main lines throughout the Balkans, including the double track line to Ploesti and Brasov.

R.A.F. planes had many hits on Saturday night also in the factory area of Bucharest, and started a number of fires.

A British Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security report yesterday said that on Saturday night there was slight enemy activity over Southern England. Bombs dropped at one place caused a small number of casualties, but no damage has been reported.

The German Overseas News Agency last night, describing the Bucharest raid, said: "During their approach the formation of American bombers was attacked by German and Rumanian fighters from Southern Rumania right along their course, until they reached the immediate target area.

"According to reports so far received, ten 4-engined planes were shot down by German fighters alone. Part of the formation attacked the City of Belgrade, where bombs were also dropped."—(Reuter.)

The German report stated that American bombers again attacked several places in Rumania on Saturday. Damage to houses and casualties among the population were caused, particularly in Brasov (Kronstadt). Twenty-three enemy planes, most of them four-engined bombers, were shot down.

GLIDER ARMADA READY IN BRITAIN

Air Chief Marshal Trafford Leigh-Mallory, Commander-in-Chief of the A.E.A.F., before the manœuvre got under way, told towplane and glider pilots and their crews that "one of the great moments of history is in front of us; it will be the greatest military project ever undertaken."

He added: "Recent operations in Burma and the ones that you will soon carry out yourselves show that air-borne forces are one of the most powerful weapons in modern warfare, and they will become increasingly important with each new operation."

The exercises were so secret that no members of the Press were invited to attend, states the P.A.

They were followed at night, according to the Air Ministry News Service, by the greatest experiment in the night-landing of spear-head troops ever staged, carried out by R.A.F. and Glider Pilot Regiment crews.

The only indication of arrival of the gliders, states a special correspondent, was a faint swish as they swept to earth and a perplexing play of shadows against the moonlit clouds.

The exercise was not in any way a special one. It was one of the series by which the R.A.F. and the airborne troops are fitting themselves by day and by night for their part in the coming battles."

BERLIN "INVADED"

Captain Balfour, British Under-Secretary for Air, on Saturday described last month's Allied air bombardment as "the preliminary artillery barrage of the second front battle." He said, "Surely, no one can question that the invasion of Europe has already come about—nearly 8,000 men invaded Berlin the other morning. Over other parts of Germany there has been, during April, an invasion from the air by day engaging about 75,000 men. The aerial army of Bomber Command during April has, in addition, put some 55,000 men above the enemy's key points in Germany and occupied territories."

German newspapers predict that the Allies will attack with 100,000 landing craft, under the protection of a gigantic air umbrella, and the main assault, they believe, will be on the Channel coast and the South of France.

One commentator, Dr. Widdecke, in the Westfaelische Landeszeitung, says that 2,000,000 men will be needed; that 50 motorised divisions are ready in Britain, Iceland and Northern Ireland; that troops for air landings are in the Faroes, and that 26 divisions, together with strong French forces, are in North Africa. "Undoubtedly," he adds, "the Allies will land strong air-borne and paratroop forces deep in the rear. But their problem is not landing, but supply."

GANDHI MAY MEET VICEROY

A meeting between Mr. Gandhi and the Viceroy at the earliest possible moment with the overall object of marshalling India's potentially vast military strength in the struggle against Japan is envisaged in Indian political circles and among those closest to the Mahatma. The conference, it is thought, would be contingent upon Gandhi's full recovery.

Devadas Gandhi says that latest information from Poona indicates that his father's condition is "much less alarming" than it appeared a few days ago.

That India as a nation is not wholeheartedly supporting the war effort is obvious, says an Associated Press message from New Delhi. The Indian armed forces number upwards of two million men, and they are all volunteers, but there is nothing resembling total war here. Political considerations greatly outweigh the war in the minds of the men who compose the nation's influential groups.

It is understood that to-morrow Mr. Gandhi will be taken to a clinic for an X-ray, after which the doctors will decide where he is to effect his convalescence.—(Reuter.)

Portuguese Ship Stopped.—The Portuguese steamer Quanza, which was sailing to Lisbon from the Portuguese colonies, was stopped by a British warship and taken to Gibraltar, says German Radio, quoting a Lisbon message.—(A.P.)

LIFE STORY OF A GREAT CHEMIST

M. Nils Leon Jaenson, the Swedish Consul - General, told members of the Irish P.E.N. Club at Jury's Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday night something of the life of Alfred Nobel, the great chemist, who invented dynamite, which has caused so much ruin in the world, but who, on the other hand, by means of the Nobel prizes, did so much for humanity.

There was no doubt, said M. Jaenson, that Nobel well realised the great dangers and the devilish possibilities of the power he invented. He often talked about them, worried about them, and tried to counteract those dangers through the provision in his will about the Peace prize. But, although Alfred Nobel had both his feet on the ground, he could not in any way be called earthbound. He had far more of the soul of a philosopher, of a dreamer, of a poet. Nobel died in San Remo in 1896, and on the last day of 1900 the executors of his will accounted for a net residue of the estate amounting to about £1,830,000.

Having described the machinery of the Nobel Foundation, M. Jaenson detailed the rules for awarding the prizes.

Professor Erwin Schroedinger, who is a Nobel prize-winner, spoke of the occasion on which he received the prize.

IRISH DOCTORS

Professor Henry Moore described the great advance in medicine in the last century, an advance which had been due in great measure to the Rockefeller Institute and the Nobel Foundation. On the last occasion, seven years ago, in which he had spoken in that room he had done so against the control by the State of the voluntary hospitals. He believed that if the doctors were left untramelled out of Ireland might one day come a Nobel prize-winner in medicine.

Mr. T. Collins, Editor of Dublin Opinion, said that two Irishmen—Yeats and Shaw—had won honour for their country by being awarded the Nobel prizes.

No Farm Butter in Dublin

Commenting on the Department's announcement concerning the supplies of farm butter, Mr. Cathal Loughney, General Secretary of the Retail Grocery, Dairy and Allied Trades' Association, stated on Saturday that shopkeepers would breathe a sigh of relief at having the true position explained to the public. The Association had been in constant touch with the Department of Supplies, because, while customers had been besieging the retailers, it should have been obvious to anyone who stopped to think that little or no farm butter would be available. The Department's announcement met the point raised by the Association, and the Minister's action was, therefore, appreciated.

A protest against the recent Government Order rationing butter to creamery suppliers was made by the Executive Committee, Irish Federated Creameries, on Saturday, in Limerick.

In this connection a special meeting of creamery societies has been called for May 20th, the societies meanwhile to act as they think best. The committee expressed the view that the old ration should be restored to suppliers, and that one shilling per gallon for milk should be paid

German Destroyer Sunk

A German destroyer of the Ebbing class was sunk early yesterday morning by light coastal forces of the Royal Navy, under the command of Lieutenant-Commander T. N. Cartwright, D.S.C., R.N.V.R. The British Admiralty, announcing this, said that the destroyer already had been driven ashore by H.M.C.S. Haida after an engagement off the Ile de Vierge, near Ushant, and was subsequently further damaged by the R.A.F.

New Mental Hospital Legislation

"THE outlook as regards mental disease to-day is much brighter than it has been for some years," said Dr. F. C. Ward, T.D., Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Local Government, when he had declared open on Saturday a new chapel, admission hospital, infirmary, nurses' home and kitchen block, costing £115,000, at the Co. Clare Mental Hospital, Ennis.

Mental hospital authorities, he said, had shown more enterprise than other hospital authorities in providing better facilities for treatment and the relief of overcrowding. Notwithstanding present-day mental anxieties, there had been a substantial fall in the past few years in the number of patients in public mental hospitals. In fact there had been an actual reduction of 1,401 on December 31st, 1943, as compared with the figure as on December 31st, 1940. Ennis contributed its full share to this gratifying improvement, and in the light of present trends it was reasonable to assume that this was due to scientific treatment and improved institutional accommodation.

He hoped in the near future to introduce legislation overhauling the mental treatment code. Many of the existing statutory provisions were completely out of date. Many new provisions were necessary, but he regarded it as a matter of urgency to set up machinery within which it would be possible to secure voluntary treatment while the illness was yet in an early, and often easily curable, stage.

Dr. Ward added that within the last ten years one new mental hospital and alterations to existing mental hospitals, with full equipment, had been provided for 3,200 patients. The total cost of the new works amounted to £2,170,000. Of this amount approximately £1,205,000 was being provided from Hospital Trust Funds, and the remainder £965,000 was being met by local authorities by way of loans from the Local Loans Fund.

U.S.A. Black-Lists Irish Firms

The United States has black-listed 38 Irish firms which are accused of aiding the Axis.

Never before has any Irish firm been black-listed.

As far as can be ascertained, no list of the firms involved has been obtained by the Government in Dublin, nor is any list likely to be supplied. It is not known here on what information the action of the U.S. Government is based, nor how that information is obtained.

Says Compulsory Irish Should Go

Because the Opposition had not come together their national and international affairs were still carried on by a narrow and bigoted Party Government, said Dr. T. F. O'Higgins, T.D., at an Offaly-Kildare meeting of the Fine Gael Party at Edenderry. That Government had failed in most fields of action at home.

Dealing with transport, he said that it was now a jungle for beasts of prey to frolic in, while the livelihood of tens of thousands of decent workers was the plaything of manipulators.

The Department of Education was dominated by fanatics, and as a result their schools were turning out badly educated children, without a sound knowledge of either Irish or English.

"I would like to see the Irish language learned and loved, and I would like to see an Irish Parliament voting a million pounds a year or more to stimulate Irish study, by giving money prizes every term in every class for the best Irish students. I would like to see generosity, even extravagance, used in stimulating Irish, but I would abolish compulsion, which is breeding animosity, instead of love, for the language," said Dr. O'Higgins.

G.S.R. EXAMINATIONS

For the first time in the history of the Great Southern Railways, candidates for the male clerkships' examination have taken the entire test in Irish, and have achieved a remarkable measure of success. Of the 80 successful students, fourteen elected to take the examination through the medium of Irish. The examination, held in the O'Connell Schools, North Richmond street, and the Bolton Street Technical Schools, attracted 691 candidates from all parts of the country in December last, and the results appear in our advertising columns to-day.

British Planes Attack Convoys

A British Air Ministry report yesterday stated:—

"On Saturday evening and again on Saturday night Beaufighters of Coastal Command attacked enemy shipping. In the evening off the Frisian Islands a medium-sized merchant vessel went on fire and was left low in the water. Two medium and two small-sized merchant ships were also damaged and set on fire. In addition, several escort vessels were attacked and damaged.

"During the night a medium-sized merchant ship was hit with a torpedo off the Norwegian coast. One aircraft is missing."

The German News Agency said that British bombers and torpedo-carrying aircraft attacked German convoys off the Frisian Islands on Saturday night, and claimed that three British planes were destroyed.—(Reuter.)

Taxation Too High

A resolution urging on the Government the necessity for a reduction in national and local taxation was adopted by Cork County Committee of Agriculture on Saturday.

Mr. J. Keane and Mr. M. J. Corry, T.D., pointed to the extensive growth in social services and the development of the defence forces as justifying the high taxation

The meeting decided to ask the G.S.R. to run services on branch lines, now closed, to serve monthly fairs.

A resolution by Mr. P. J. Hallidan, T.D., was also adopted, asking the Government to set up a commission to inquire into the cost of production of milk. He said that the present price of 10½d. per gallon at creameries was uneconomic.

BURMESE SUPPLY-LINE TOWN EVACUATED

THE withdrawal of British troops from Buthidaung, in Arakan, the inland terminus of the main supply road from Maungdaw and 65 miles north-west of the port of Akyab, was reported in yesterday's communiqué from Admiral Mountbatten's H.Q.

The operation was part of a readjustment of positions after the Allied troops had re-established themselves "on certain features vital to the security of this line," the communiqué said. It was carried out without Japanese interference, and it was not made under pressure, says Sam Jackett, Reuter's Special Correspondent at South-East Asia Headquarters.

Stating that the withdrawal came as something of a shock, Jackett says that the explanation is not difficult. After the capture by the Allies of the last hill feature held by the Japanese on the Maungdaw-Buthidaung road, Buthidaung, captured on March 12th this year, became of no further use. It is a mere shell. When control of the road was ensured, the town itself became nothing but a handicap.

North and South of Kohima the Allies are consolidating their recently captured positions, the communiqué added. On Saturday the Japanese made a series of strong, but unavailing, attacks between these areas against the perimeter of the Kohima defences.

REINFORCED

Japanese troops have captured the railway town of Yencheng, 85 miles south of Chengchow, the Chinese communiqué said.

American bombers based in China attacked Saigon, one of the chief cities of French Indo-China, on Friday, said the Japanese News Agency yesterday. This was the first raid on Saigon since the outbreak of the Pacific war, the Agency added.

The Japanese News Agency quotes the Siamese High Command for an announcement that 200 Chinese troops invaded Siam from the Chinese Province, of Yunnan towards the end of last month. "They were successfully repulsed," the announcement said.—(Reuter and A.P.)

AUSTRALIA'S VIEW

Mr. John Curtin, Prime Minister of Australia, disclosed in a B.B.C. postscript last night one of the points of agreement reached at the London Conference of Empire Premiers.

"Australia," he said, "lays stress on the importance of the combined Allied military effort against Japan, and, while recognising and accepting the strategy of 'Beat Hitler first,' points out that because that will mean a prolonged war in the Pacific it is essential that a certain minimum effort must be maintained in the Pacific so that prolongation will not become stalemate.

"This point of view has been completely accepted by the Prime Ministers' conference."

ALLIES REPEL SHARP ATTACK

GENERAL ALEXANDER'S troops in the bridgehead and along the main Italian front have broken up sharp German attacks at the Allied defences, Reuter's Special Correspondent cables from Headquarters. Apart from these clashes, the battlefield has been quiet.

The main attack was on Saturday morning, near the centre of the bridgehead perimeter, about a mile and a half west of Carano. Supported by tanks, artillery and mortars, the Germans struck hard, but did not succeed in penetrating the Allied lines. Lesser clashes occurred along the front for a mile on either side of the main attack.

On the south front, a sharp German attack about two miles south-east of San Andrea was broken up by mortar fire. The struggle was stubborn and prolonged, both sides losing dead and wounded. Further downstream a patrol tried unsuccessfully to penetrate Allied positions near Timonsuoli.

At Cassino and to the south, German artillery has been more active than usual. The Germans tried a small raid within Cassino itself, but it was broken up by Allied artillery.

Patrol clashes and mortar exchanges took place along the Adriatic front, where the Germans over a wide area dropped propaganda leaflets. In addition to the leaflets, the Germans are directing radio propaganda at the Allied front-line troops.

SEBASTOPOL RING TIGHTENS

THE Soviet stranglehold on Sebastopol is tightening to a degree that seems to foreshadow the approaching end of the German garrison, Reuter's Special Correspondent cables from Moscow.

The last 48 hours have seen a tremendous intensification of air attacks on German convoys and on the Luftwaffe, and several ships have been sunk in Sebastopol harbour.

Soviet light bombers are specialising in smashing the powerful a.-a. defences round Sebastopol harbour. On land the lull continues, with the Germans still probing the Stanislavov region.

The Soviet operational communiqué said that there were no material changes at the front during May 7th, and that 14 German tanks were destroyed or disabled and 41 German aircraft shot down.

The Air communiqué stated:—"Large formations of the Soviet Air Force on May 6th and during the night of May 6th-7th dealt blows at enemy troops and equipment in the area of Sebastopol, concentrations of German and Rumanian troops, fire power, defence installations, dumps, the aerodrome and shipping in the port of Sebastopol were bombed. The enemy suffered heavy losses, and a large number of enemy artillery batteries were silenced. Four ammunition dumps were blown up, and several ships damaged."

ATTACKS REPELLED

The German High Command communiqué said:—"In front of Sebastopol the enemy continued his attacks with very strong artillery and air support, particularly in the northern sector. The attacks were repelled in fluctuating fighting, and local breaches were sealed off. Over the Crimea 34 Soviet planes were shot down by German fighter and combat planes. North of Jassy, east of Polotsk, and south of Pskov minor Soviet attacks were unsuccessful."

Colonel von Hammer, German commentator, said that the German and Rumanian defensive system along the northern wing of the Sebastopol defences still remains in the defenders' hands, "apart from a few small penetrations."

Labour T.D. Says There is No Need for War

The memory of James Connolly, who was executed in 1916, was honoured yesterday in Dublin when a parade of members of various trade unions, with the exception of the Irish Transport Union, took place from Parnell square to College Green, where a public meeting was held. Several bands took part in the procession. The speakers were: Alderman M. Sullivan, T.D., Lord Mayor of Dublin; Mr. R. Getgood, Belfast, President of the Trade Union Congress, and Mr. R. Connolly, T.D., son of the dead leader.

Mr. Getgood said that the life of James Connolly was a challenge to the workers present, whether from North or South. He appealed to them to close their ranks, and build the labour organisation into one solid and united movement.

Mr. R. Connolly, T.D., defended the aims and ideals of his father, and said that the Labour movement had a policy of neutrality long before the Government. Neutrality was only a negative policy. His father's aim was that there should be no need for war, and that the working classes should get the power into their own hands. His object was a free society, nationally, economically and socially. Those who had been battening on the Irish people for the last twenty years, he said, were now trying to get a firm strangle-hold on them with advantage to themselves. If, however, they attempted to take advantage of the present phase, they would find themselves mistaken.

Members of the I.T. and G.W. Union and of all the other trade and labour bodies joined in the Connolly commemoration at Cork. The Lord Mayor (Alderman J. Hickey) said that they were rightly afraid of foreign occupation, and were determined to prevent it. They should be equally afraid of returning to the old pre-war Ireland, with its unemployment, poverty and ill-health. Mr. Gilbert Lynch, Dublin, member of the Executive, Trade Union Congress, also spoke.

Speaking at a Connolly commemoration in Drogheda, Mr. L. J. Duffy said that the opportunity afforded by our neutrality to plan the utilisation of the nation's resources was being thrown away.

German Shipments of Swedish Maps

German officials, who have been in conversations with the Swedish Government regarding the recent discovery of several shipments of maps of Swedish territory, contended that the maps were being sent to the German troops as a matter of routine, said a Swedish communiqué yesterday.

The Germans said that the maps were sent in unsealed cars because Sweden no longer permitted sealed cars to pass through the country. Such maps were sent regularly to German troops in all sectors of Europe, the German spokesman added.—(Associated Press.)

Teachers' Call for Inquiry

The conference of the Ulster Teachers' Union in Belfast on Saturday called for an independent inquiry into the working of the school inspection system. Miss P. M. O'Connor, M.A., of Dungiven, spoke of the demoralising influence of inspectors' reports, and declared that the best reports were often gained at the expense of the children.

An inquiry into the cause of the "flagrant flouting" of the compulsory attendance clauses in the Education Act was also demanded.

Duke's Heir Weds

The Marquess of Hartington, eldest son of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, and the Duke's heir, was married at Chelsea register office on Saturday to Miss Kathleen Kennedy, second daughter of Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy, former U.S. Ambassador in London. The best man was the Duke of Rutland. The witnesses were the Duke of Devonshire and Lieutenant Joseph Kennedy, U.S. Navy, the bride's brother.

The Marquess first met his bride when her father was Ambassador in London. Last summer she returned to Britain to serve with the American Red Cross. She is 24, and the Marquess is 26. He was the Government candidate in the recent West Derbyshire by-election.

Search for Escaped Lunatic

An extensive search was carried out by the police in Armagh and surrounding districts yesterday for a patient who escaped from the County Mental Hospital in the morning. Although the countryside has been thoroughly searched by police, so far there is no trace of the man, who is described as dangerous.

Minister Sees Dangers In Any Excess Of Planning

THERE are developments of planning that are incompatible with the full development of the human personality and contrary to the natural law of man's being. Wherever and whenever these essential freedoms have been denied there has been no progress, only stagnation and decay; and planners, therefore, must recognise their limitations, Mr. MacEntee, Minister for Local Government and Public Health, told a gathering of the To-morrow Club, at the Royal Hibernian Hotel, Dawson street, on Saturday night.

The Minister had previously visited the National Planning Exhibition, which, he said, was certainly educative and informative, and should evoke from thoughtful men certain questions.

I have two questions to ask, Mr. MacEntee said—Why you plan? Whither are you going? Planning means deliberate control, and the more effective the planning the more absolute and comprehensive must be the control. If our planning is to cover wide and complex fields of economic and social organisation, then we shall not only have a "planned production" but a "planned consumption" as well, because we will have a system in which the consumer will be at the mercy of a monopolist producer which inevitably, in some guise or other, directly or indirectly, will be the State, which will give him what it likes, when it likes and how it likes.

When we plan in this comprehensive way we get what is euphemistically called a "planned economy." But a "planned economy" is an economy which can function only if every human being keeps his appointed place in the scale of things, doing no more, and certainly no less, than the planning authority, whether it be an economic council, an economic general staff, or some other instrument, agent, or manifestation of authoritarianism, has ordained for him. These are considerations of the highest importance for those who take an interest in national planning.

MASTERS AND SERFS

Obviously, in such a world, under such an economy, there will be a sharp line of division in human society. On the one side we shall have the planners — on the other side those who ostensibly serve but who are in fact serfs of the plan.

Let me put it bluntly—on one side we shall have the master minds—those who plan; and on the other we shall have the serfs. You will realise then the pertinence of my next question. Who is to plan for whom? Remember that in this "planned economy" which some envisage, it is the planning authority which is to determine who gets what, when, and how. Under such an economy all things that men value—status, dignity, competence and security—will be attained only through the favour of the ruling hierarchy, the group which controls. Then the State will make its own morality.

It will be a morality which, in its concepts, will disregard all individual values and standards.

TROTSKY'S ANSWER

Those who advocate "planned economy" did so, said Mr. MacEntee on the ground that only in such an economy can the natural resources of the country be utilised to provide a sufficiency for every member of the community, with freedom from fear and from want.

The answer to that, however, was given by no less an authority than Leon Trotsky, who wrote: "In a country where the sole employer is the State, opposition means death by slow starvation. The old principle: Who does not work shall not eat, has been replaced by a new one: Who does not obey shall not eat."

Planning endeavour, said the Minister, must confine itself to providing for the people the cultural opportunities and the practical and material facilities which are necessary to enable human beings to live their lives with dignity, in peace and freedom, and in comfort, depending mainly upon their own effort, but not diminished unduly by incapacity or misfortune. Therefore, we should plan, as we have been doing, to provide a comprehensive and rational hospital system, adequate roads, an effective and efficient transport system, decent houses for all our people, with all the amenities the material developments of the last century have made possible. We should plan, as we have been doing, to give all our people the opportunity to acquire such an education, liberal or vocational, as their talents, tastes or requirements suggest to them. We must not in the name of freedom, whether it be freedom from sickness, freedom from fear, or freedom from want, make them serfs in a servile State.

EXCHANGE OF IDEAS

General Mulcahy said he felt that the Minister was telling the planners to "stop that noise." The problems to be dealt with in Europe and elsewhere after the war were not going to be settled by Governments; they could be solved only by individuals and groups standing over their own small jobs—it was only by the farmer and the industrialist developing his technique that they could provide the opportunities for work that would be necessary for the maintenance of their people generally. These things required constant day after day attention, and he did not think it a reflection on the Minister or the Civil Service to say that they could not be studied in detail or adjudicated upon sitting in Government offices at a table.

There was much he would like to see kept in front of planners—they could always learn more and more by exchange of ideas with one another, and, even if Ministers came along with speeches which seemed to damp them down and were provocative, they could feel that always there would come some growth out of it.

Dr. Conway, President, U.C.D., said that, like everyone else, he had an axe to grind. He was head of a college with over 3,000 students—a small town—and accommodation for only 1,200. His job was to plan for them. He had paid two visits to the National Planning Exhibition, and had been much impressed by the vast amount of information it contained. One thing that impressed him was that there was no distinction between North and South—there was no border.

Mr. P. J. Hernon, City Manager, said that this was an age of planning, but in his opinion all planning was meaningless unless it was supplemented by specific detailed proposals, and here their engineers, architects and surveyors came into play.

Mr. A. McGuckian, a visitor from Clough Mills, Co. Antrim, said that people in the North who were concerned about the maintenance of the border felt it was likely to continue some time, because in the South they were too prone to look back on history instead of looking to the future, and because they were divided into separate camps. The "To-morrow Club" had provided a platform where people of every political allegance could meet together.

Captain Vaughan Quinn said that finance was a point which had to be borne in mind. Planning could only be financed either by public moneys or private enterprise. The Minister had rightly given them warning on this subject.

Acknowledging the vote of thanks, Mr. MacEntee said that St. Patrick's Training College had been closed down because it was found that what they needed to-day was not more national teachers, but more secondary teachers.

"YES, Doc, I am! For one thing I feel fitter since I parked my car and took to cycling. Mind you, I'll be glad to get the 'old bus' back again, but I'm certainly going to carry on with my Rudge. Not only because I feel better for the exercise, but it's so handy for short runs around the village, and one gets a chance of pottering around and seeing things."

Pensioner tells how Fynnon Salt relieved his leg pains

"Nine weeks ago," writes an old-age pensioner, "I had a severe attack of sciatica—my first. The first four weeks I could not put my foot to the ground. Reading in my daily paper of the good results someone had derived from Fynnon Salt, I decided to try a tin. After 8 days I could put my foot to the ground and with the aid of two sticks walk about a little. On the 14th day of treatment I needed only one stick, and have now discarded that, and moreover I am back at work (casual). I am a pensioner so you will know I am not a boy!"

Fynnon Salt helps to purify the bloodstream, flushes liver and kidneys, eliminates from the body the toxins which contribute to rheumatism and sciatica. Large tin 1/6. Get yourself a tin right away!

Take Fynnon Salt if you have

Costly Failure of Erinox At Leopardstown

RECENT winning form proved the best guide on Saturday at the transferred Naas meeting at Leopardstown, where Historical Revue, Barr Hill and Madariaga followed up recent successes by scoring again.

Historical Revue, winner of a hurdle race at the Curragh a week earlier, was comparatively neglected in the wagering on the May 'Chase, most valuable race of the day, for which the Co. Kilkenny-trained Erinox was a strong favourite, as he was entitled to be after his disqualification at Baldoyle. Erinox must be rated an exceptionally unlucky sort, as, after figuring prominently for the greater part of the journey, he swerved badly before they came into the straight, and Historical Revue, a lucky chance mount for Jerry Fitzgerald, went on to score comfortably from the useful flat race performer, Our Pyjamas, and the consistent Summer Star, who ran her usual game race in the hands of a new "pilot" in D. McCann.

BEST FINISH.

Mr. R. L. Banker, a newcomer to racing here, again had his colours successfully carried in the Kill T.-Y.-O. Plate by Mimizan, who started joint favourite with the same owner's Mragmohini and Pilot Sergeant. This was the best finish of the day, heads only dividing the first three. Barr Hill followed up his hurdles win by readily overhauling Tolta and the early leader, Aces Up, in the Kerry Plate, while Madariaga, beautifully ridden by Mr. P. J. Lenehan, came through to win the amateur riders' race, after Duhallow and Knockaney in turn had looked like winning.

YACHTING IN DUBLIN BAY

Although the Water Wags have been racing for the past fortnight the sailing season proper did not get under way until Saturday afternoon, when the Dublin Bay S.C. commenced their racing programme at Dun Laoghaire. Thirty-six boats started in the five races decided over the starboard course, and, as the Seapoint mark was not in position, shortened courses were the order, except in the Wags, who made their first trip to Bullock.

Maureen (P. D. Odlum), champion boat in the "Twenty-ones" last year, scored with ease from Estelle and Geraldine; Rita (W. J. Mackan) won the "Seventeens," Eileen was second, and Silver Moon, who flew a protest, third. The Mermaids' race was "starred." Oonagh (D. M. Booth) winning from Nike and Amy, while Jacqueline (Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Henry) beat Mollie and Coquette in the Wags. Mercia (W. J. Smallbridge) had something to spare in winning the cruisers' handicap.

CIVIL SERVICE.. 3-8 PARNELLS 0-7

Best football of the 1944 championships was played by Civil Service at Croke Park yesterday. Off their marks like a shot, they showed speed and ball control. Parnells had shone in their earlier rounds, but they were outpaced and outplayed. Civil Service are in the championship final for the first time.

Trinity scored rapidly—the two hundred went up in just over two hours.

PHŒNIX 79 PEMBROKE 82 (for no wkt.)

At Sydney Parade on Saturday Phœnix, league champions, suffered a heavy defeat at the hands of Pembroke in a league game. Phœnix batted first, but were never allowed to settle down, the bowling of the brothers Williams, combined with exceptionally keen fielding all round, taking heavy toll of their wickets. They were all out before tea for 79, and M. Williams and K. Dempsey quickly ran up the runs for Pembroke, who won by ten wickets. Batting on, Pembroke made 148 for two, M. Williams scoring 69 not out and K. Dempsey 59.

INTER-CITY CUP SOCCER MATCHES

CLIFTONVILLE 0

THE League of Ireland champions, Shelbourne, on Saturday at Dalymount Park placed themselves in a strong position for their second match in the Inter-city Cup competition at Belfast against Cliftonville, as it is most unlikely that the Belfast amateurs will be able to concede them a lead of 3 goals and 6-5 on corner-kicks.

The scoring would suggest that Shelbourne were in their best form; but it was not so. Their forwards in the first half were tied up by the Cliftonville backs, and if the visitors had had a couple of forwards who could shoot, the champions might not have had it so much their own way on the score.

In the second half, however, it was nearly all Shelbourne; but the Reds' halves and front liners gave a deadly dull display of head-balling about the Cliftonville goal. It was not until McCluskey, with a long chance drive, got Shelbourne's third, that the monotony of it was relieved.

All the scoring was in the second half. After ten minutes Ryan was taken down in the Cliftonville penalty area, and Olphert converted the kick. Subsequently Cassidy and Fallon failed in front of a goal left wide open by the Cliftonville goalkeeper, and half-way through the period Fallon placed the ball well out of the goalkeeper's reach. Six minutes from the close McCluskey got the Reds' third.

Kiernan had a couple of hard shots to deal with; the second (Hegarty's), just on the final whistle, he barely managed to save at the expense of a corner.

The gate receipts were £234.

BOHEMIANS 4 LINFIELD ... 0

Although Linfield have not been playing very well of late, it was not anticipated that they would lose so heavily to Bohemians, who won by 4 goals to nil at Windsor Park. Bohemians were faster on the ball, and their positional play was superior. They had a solid defence, in which Glennon, Coyle and Molloy did great work, while the swift changes of position by the brothers O'Flanagan opened up the Linfield defence.

Coyle tied Cochrane up completely, and Lockhart, being injured in the first half and retiring in the second, Linfield were completely mastered.

There was no score in the first half, but in the quarter of an hour after the start of the second half Bohemians scored three goals, and had the game well in hands. M. O'Flanagan, Smith and Reilly were the scorers, and Reilly scored the fourth after a run in which he beat three defenders. Linfield got five corners and Bohemians two. Receipts were £350.

BELFAST CELTIC... 4 SHAMROCK R. 3

The return match between Belfast Celtic and Shamrock Rovers drew a big crowd to Celtic Park, where Celtic won by 4 goals to 3 before a crowd which paid £735.

Rovers scored first, but Celtic settled down and gained a two goals lead. Defensive mistakes were taken advantage of by Rovers, who fought back in fine style. Celtic managed to win by the odd goal in seven. O'Neill (3) and McAlinden scored for Celtic, and Delaney, Rogers and Dunn for Rovers.

International Match (at Cardiff)—Wales 0, England 2.

DIVIDEND LIMIT HARD ON SHAREHOLDERS

DURING the greater part of last week public interest was at low ebb, and Dublin Stock Markets made a very quiet showing. Although there was a little irregularity in price movements, the undertone was steady. The Budget, which contained no fresh taxation, had no effect on markets. Some people will be disappointed that Mr. O'Kelly did not see his way to allow companies which have never paid a dividend to pay more than 6 per cent.

Several of the newly-formed Irish industrial concerns had been unable to pay dividends in the initial years of production, but since the outbreak of war many of them have enjoyed better trading conditions and have paid off the arrears of Preference dividends. The position of the Ordinary shareholders is quite different. Those people who put their savings into these shares their money for some years. Although conditions now are considerably brighter, Ordinary dividends are limited to 6 per cent. Furthermore, shareholders are wondering if the companies will be able to stand up to outside competition when the war is over. In view of the uncertainty of the post-war years, they feel that they should be allowed to receive bigger dividends now provided profits permit.

LOOKS ATTRACTIVE

Interest in Home Rails has continued at low ebb, due to the serious coal position and the possibility of labour troubles. Few investors are willing to take a hand in this market for the time being. Great Southern Debenture has consequently slipped back to 92¼, at which level it must look attractive to investors and institutions who are in a position to lock their capital away, because in 16 years at the latest they are guaranteed by the State to receive £100 per cent. in cash. It can thus be seen that under more normal circumstances this stock would stand at a considerably higher level.

POST-WAR SHARES

Irish Industrial issues have reached prices which make intending investors more discriminate in choosing their purchases. People are more inclined to go for shares in companies which hold good post-war prospects, but, unfortunately, these are becoming more difficult to pick up. In this category Cement, Ltd., Ord. are still available at the moment at around 42s. 6d., and they should pay for their keep.

Sunbeam Wolsey Ord., if they can be picked up at anywhere around the last price of 56s. 9d. should be worth attention. This company has a proud record, and in the pre-war days, was able to cope quite successfully with foreign competition. Despite the difficulties of the times it is still doing well, and future prospects look bright.

The Dickens Leather Co. report showed excellent trading conditions during the past year. Net profits jumped from £2,064 to £4,362, while the Ordinary dividend was maintained at 10 per cent. The Ordinary Shares are rather tightly held, and have not changed for several months. The Preference Shares are all buyers at 25s. 3d., but at anywhere around this level they do not look overvalued.

Pye (Ireland) 5s, Shares are in request at about 8s. The company has succeeded in maintaining its dividend at 7½ per cent. during the difficult war years. The last report showed that some inroad had to be made into existing stocks, which are becoming more difficult to replenish. Yet the post-war prospects look bright, and they should prove a useful speculation.

Merger of Shipping Companies

FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT

DETAILS of the offer made by the Blue Star Line for the shares of the Lamport and Holt Line, Ltd., show that 25s. is offered for each 6s. 8d. stock unit, and is conditional on the acceptance of not less than 75 per cent. of the stock of the company. Completion of the purchase is to take place on June 5th. The directors of the Lamport and Holt Line recommend the acceptance of the offer, stating that they have themselves accepted the offer for their own holdings and those they control. There are six directors who must resign if the offer becomes effective, and will be compensated for loss of office to the amount of £150,000.

IRON AND STEEL

One of the features of recent market movements has been the quietly progressive appreciation in the shares of the leading iron and steel companies. The rises have been a few pence at a time, and there have been dull periods, but in the main the movement has been definitely upward. There is the prospect that the demand for steel in the work of reconstruction in post-war years will be substantial, especially in relation to prefabrication for all kinds of buildings.

Although prices have risen in the past six months, it remains a fact that income offered in this section of the market still is, in many cases, considerably higher than can be obtained elsewhere. Here is a comparison showing the price movement over the six months and the present yields based on the last dividends.

	Price Oct. 4.	Price To-day.	Present Yield.
Hadfields (10/-)	30/3	32/6	5/13/0
Baldwins (4/-)	5/9	6/4½	6/6/0
United Steel	24/9	26/0	6/3/1
Vickers (10/-)	18/9	20/0	5/0/0
Allied Iron	49/6	52/6	4/15/3
John Brown (10/-)	26/6	28/3	7/1/7
Guest Keen	35/0	38/0	5/4/7

If it were desired to select a share from this list it might be suggested that those of Allied Ironfounders might be worth special attention. The company is an amalgamation of a number of companies which specialise in the production of cast iron goods, mainly for use in the building trade.

HOME RAILS

Two important statements made by Mr. Noel Baker, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of War Transport, in his summary of the transport situation have particular interest for the many thousands of investors in Home Railway stocks. Urged to give some indication of the Government's policy towards the railways, he forecast a considerable period of control after the war before they could "present to Parliament a White Paper saying what we are going to do." Thus it is evident that some years may elapse before the agreement under which the stockholders are now assured of a definite income will come to an end. At the same time he made it clear that plans were already being prepared for a general overhaul of the railway systems. In particular it will be proposed to electrify large sections of the main line and suburban railways.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS

The annual report of the United States and South American Investment Trust, Ltd., illustrates the satisfactory position in which these important investment organisations find themselves. With investments having a book value of £2,201,856, the company is able to show that their market value is 17.46 p.c. above the book value, as compared with an excess value of 11.56 p.c. in the previous year. Despite the name of this particular trust, 81.3 p.c. of its investments are in stocks and shares located in Great Britain and the British Dominions. Only 0.7 p.c. are located in the United States and 11.2 p.c. in South America. The company's Ordinary stock is quoted at about 183, at which it offers a yield of about 4¼ p.c.

WALL STREET IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Saturday.—The Stock Exchange was moderately active at the opening, with the trend irregular, while many of the leaders were narrowly irregular. Steady tendencies persisted, but towards the close the direction was a trifle cloudy. The market finished irregular. The turnover of 331,000 shares comprised 674 issues, of which 280 advanced, 172 declined and 222 remained unchanged.

IRISH PRODUCE IN BRITAIN

A firm tone is maintained in all departments of the provision market in the Manchester area, reports from local centres confirming steady trading conditions in meats, fats and dairy products.

The thirteenth allocation of eggs for this area is now in hand, and deliveries consist of English, Eire and North Irish, which are in good supply. Retail prices category—I 17/3; II, 14/9 per 120.

Supplies of salmon from Eire are still short of the keen demand, which is well maintained at the official price of 4/9 per pound wholesale. Dead poultry from Eire is forthcoming, but arrivals are somewhat irregular. There was a moderate consignment of fowls and a few turkeys early in the week, and a limited quantity, mainly of fowls, was received from Northern Ireland towards the week-end. A steady clearance was effected at maximum prices:—Fowls chickens, Ducks, geese, 1/9; turkeys, 2/9 per pound, wholesale.

A Co. Louth secondary schools' athletics championships meeting was held at Dundalk on Saturday, and the best performers have been entered for the Leinster Schools' Championships on May 20th. A correspondent suggests that similar county championships should in future be held before the provincial championships with a view to increasing interest in athletics among schoolboys. He pays a tribute to the excellent organisation of the Dundalk meeting.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Memorial Mass.—The annual Mass for deceased members of Fianna Eireann was celebrated by the Rev. C. Barrett, C.C., in the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough street, yesterday.

Untaxed Dance Tickets.—Thomas Kennelly, Monnsen, Liscelton, and Michael Curtin, Ballydonoghue, were each fined £12 10/- for admitting two persons to Ballydonoghue Dance Hall with unstamped tickets.

Fell into Canal.—A verdict of death from heart failure, accelerated by immersion in the water, was returned at an inquest in Dublin on Saturday on John Dowling (65), a Corporation employee, of Ceannt's Fort, Mount Brown, whose body was taken from the Grand Canal at Rialto on Friday.

Limerick Solicitor's Death.—The death took place in Limerick on Saturday of Mr. John D. Ryan, LL.B., solicitor. He was son of the late Mr. Timothy Ryan, ex-Mayor of Limerick, and was admitted a solicitor sixteen years ago. He is survived by his widow and two children.

Responded to Every Appeal.—A man who never failed to respond to broadcast appeals on Sunday nights, and whose assistance to those in need was ever an accepted fact died at his home, Ayrfield, Malahide road, on Wednesday last. He was Mr. J. P. Twomey, a native of Rusheen, Co. Cork, for 20 years proprietor of Jonathan Richards and Co., Merchant's quay, Dublin.

Dublin Fire Damage.—Two buildings in the South Circular road yesterday morning were damaged by fire, which started in the garage of the White Swan Laundry, later spreading to the premises of Messrs. Johnson Brothers. Several motor and horse-drawn vehicles belonging to the White Swan Laundry were destroyed.

Glasthule Boys' Club.—A second drive for funds for the Glasthule Boys' Club was made yesterday, when the Parish Council of Glasthule and the Glenageary Development Committee held a fête at Beaufort, Glasthule. There was a large attendance. The attractions included a boxing tournament and a tennis match. The band of the Local Security Force and the Glasthule Pipers Band played popular pieces.

History of Christ Church Cathedral

Christ Church Cathedral, said the Dean of Belfast, speaking there yesterday, owed its beginning to the Christianised Danes, who, 900 years ago, built on its site their church, overlooking the Liffey. In those days the Danish Church owed no allegiance to the Celtic Church, Armagh.

St. Lawrence O'Toole, whose church this was, was the first Dublin Bishop to receive Irish congregations.

The Dean spoke at morning and afternoon Services in commemoration of the restoration of the Cathedral, which was re-opened on May 1st, 1878, after having been in the hands of the builders for seven years. The cost of the work was defrayed by Mr. Henry Roe.

Also taking part in the Services were the Dean of Christ Church, the Very Rev. E. H. Lewis-Crosby, and the Bishop of Limerick.

VERITAS DRAMA GROUP

At the Gate Theatre, Dublin, last night the Veritas Drama Group continued "the work of trying to build psychological truth gently into the light structure of dramatic entertainment." One remembered Ibsen, not so light, perhaps, but, maybe, more entertaining. "Classical Prelude," by Máirín Lennon, is a play which is better in its parts than in the whole impression that it leaves, yet it is something which has a certain grace and distinction in its general make-up. Its production suggests that this Group can hopefully continue their experiments with drama.

There was too much music at the opening of "Classical Prelude," and it went on to say too much about love—in a purely sentimental way. Yet it had its nice moments, for which one was grateful, and some playing that was good, particularly when one could remember that it was something being done upon a stage, and not over the sixty-four squares of the chessboard. Those who seemed to fill these moments best were: Liam O Ceallaigh, Nóirín Henaghan, Nuala O'Doherty, and Pat O'Brien.

The production by Liam O Ceallaigh was in prefect accord with the graceful intentions of the author.

MRS. SMYLY'S HOMES

The Duckett Cup for Association League football was won this year by the boys of Mrs. Smyly's Homes and Schools (B Section of the 2nd Company, Boys' Brigade), and it was among the prizes distributed by Lord Farnham at the display held, together with an American tea and gift day, at the Boys' Home, Lower Grand Canal street, Dublin, on Saturday.

An appeal for funds for the Home was made by Lord Farnham. Among other prizes distributed were two first prizes in the Dublin Battalion, Boys' Brigade, essay competition, which were won by members of B Section.

Mr. Dermod O'Brien, P.R.H.A., was in the chair.

FEIS CEOIL AWARDS

In this year's Feis Ceoil composers' competitions Staf Gebruers, 3 Graham's terrace, Cobh, was the winner in two classes—that for an original song with Irish or English words and piano accompaniment, and for the best arrangement of Irish airs suitable for céilidhe bands.

The Milligan Fox Medal, awarded for the best arrangement of an Irish air as a two-part song with Irish words, was won by Factna O hAnnracháin, 72 Haddington road, Dublin.

YOUNG LIFE AT ZOO

The outstanding event in the history of the Society was the birth and successful rearing of two Himalayan bear cubs, which are now nearly four months' old. This was stated by Captain Alan Gordon, who presided at the Royal Zoological Society members' breakfast in the Phœnix Park on Saturday. The Council believed, he said, that these were the only Himalayan bear cubs that have been born and reared in these islands. A young Rhesus monkey was born last Saturday week. This was the third baby born to this mother in the last three years. The young Mona monkey, purchased at the end of last summer, was now on show in the Monkey House. She spent the winter in the Superintendent's house.

LIGHT AND LEADING!

There was a little too much of the elder statesman about Mr. MacEntee's speech before the To-morrow Club on Saturday. It sounded almost as if he had been sent there by his Cabinet colleagues to administer a grandfatherly rebuke to the host of distinguished engineers, architects, farmers, doctors and other practical men who have gone so far as to profess enthusiasm for the physical reconstruction of Ireland. Has the success of the National Planning Exhibition—which, by the way, will close to-morrow evening at the Mansion House—caused the Government some uneasiness? Has its admirable array of plans, models, diagrams, possessing a far stronger appeal to the plain man and woman than a thousand columns of print could exercise, offered a vision of perfection which the Government cannot hope to realise? We ourselves are satisfied that the Exhibition has caused many thousands of people to think—to think not merely of the problems that await solution, but of the part which they, as individuals, must play in the solving of those problems. That is a great achievement, and the Government ought to welcome it. Why, in such circumstances, has Mr. MacEntee gone to such length to point out the dangers of planning? He cannot seriously believe that the next step after the creation of better roads, better hospitals, fairer and more efficient towns, more productive agriculture, reorganised fisheries, swifter and more economical transport, must be the evolution of a "servile State." From any reasonable point of view, children's allowances are surely a greater menace to individuality than are all the projects of the National Planning Conference and its Exhibition.

Where would the Minister draw the line? He is at pains to observe that his own Government has not been forgetful of planning for the future—that it, too, has schemes for transport, for hospitals, for fisheries, for afforestation, for agriculture, for better towns. Are these activities free of danger when Mr. MacEntee and his colleagues formulate and administer them, but a source of mental and spiritual stagnation and death when they are advocated by anybody outside the charmed circle? In fairness to the Minister, we must grant him the right to feel a small element of pique. The whole function of the National Planning Exhibition has been to point the contrast between Ireland as it is and Ireland as it might be, and ought to be. Mr. MacEntee and his colleagues are not so "hard-boiled" in politics as not to resent what must seem to them—however unintentional it may be—an implicit criticism of their conduct of affairs during the past twelve years. We do not blame the Minister for that. If we blame him for anything, it is because he has tried—not, however, very convincingly—to throw cold water upon one of the first and most important evidences of public co-operation in the functions of government. We say "co-operation," and we mean co-operation. The National Planning Conference has not the smallest desire to usurp the functions of government. It represents the harnessing of many of the country's best brains—not to create a "ruling hierarchy of planners," or to pave the way for a "monopolist" State of masters and slaves; not even to dictate courses of action to this or any other Government—but purely and simply to keep the needs of the present before the eyes of Government and people alike; to advise and, if need be, to recommend, out of its immensely capacious reservoir of practical common-sense and professional knowledge.

We repeat that the Government ought to welcome the Conference's activities with enthusiasm. If the Conference has done nothing else, it has helped to tear down the wall of ignorance and misunderstanding which hitherto has stood between the Government and the people. For the first time, perhaps, the people of Dublin have been given a clear picture of some of the difficulties that confront this Government, and will confront its successors for many generations. They will be less inclined to grumble when the Estimates include a sum for reafforestation—because they will know something about the necessity for reafforestation; they will not grudge money for the reorganisation of the sea fisheries; they will have clearer views on such subjects as regional administration and county management. Does Mr. MacEntee not feel that such illumination is a desirable thing—or does he fear that the ways of government are too murky to be revealed? Perhaps, we do him an injustice in suggesting that his speech of Saturday evening was an attempt to create a sense of disillusionment in regard to the activities of the National Planning Conference. If it was so, it has not succeeded. The Irishman's mind has hardened during the last few years. He is less ready than he was to be side-tracked by nick-names, shibboleths, misrepresentations. He no longer permits an obvious reform to be damned by the labels "Fascist," or "Communist," or even "laissez-faire," or "un-Irish"; he tries to find out whether it is a good or a bad thing in itself. If he wants a better system of hospitals, he will not allow himself to be persuaded that, in asking for it, he is setting his foot on the road to a servile State. The citizen, in fact, is learning sense—and the National Planning Exhibition, as we think, is one of his best teachers.

General Post

There is nothing strange to an Irish ear in a dirge about the excessive bills for postage incurred by a member of a national Parliament. The matter is raised periodically in Dail Eireann, usually as an appendix to a discussion on deputies' salaries. One member declared on a recent occasion that his own bill for letters connected with his business as a representative of the people amounted to £2 10s. a week; and it seems to be agreed that answers to constituents alone run the conscientious deputy into a considerable expenditure. At Westminster the familiar strain has been taken up by that vocal young Conservative, Mr. Bartle Bull, M.P. Mr. Bull reminded the House of Commons that many years ago members of Parliament enjoyed the privilege of franking their letters through the post free of charge. Nominally, it seems, they were entitled to send ten letters a day without payment; but in practice the restriction was ignored. Before very long the Post Office began to discover that the free correspondence formed an unduly large proportion of its cargoes. Members were not reluctant to oblige their families or their friends, or to send a more than ordinarily bulky package under their frank. A climax was reached when a sporting gentleman included, with some other miscellaneous items, a full pack of hounds. It scarcely seems surprising that it was deemed advisable to rescind the privilege, and to force members of Parliament to send their letters and their foxhounds at the ordinary rates. The fact, however—the £2 10s. a week—still remains. Such a sum, it is argued, makes a distinct hole in a deputy's £480 a year; when travelling expenses, hotel expenses and the like are deducted, the balance is even more slender. One wonders, if the facts presented are correct, whether it is worth while for either side to debate the vexed question of the exemption of the salaries from income tax. If the expenses were deducted, as is legitimate, before calculation of the tax, would the Treasury stand to gain even as much as the salaries of the administering officials?

"LIFE IN NEW ZEALAND UNDER LABOUR"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Will you kindly allow me to correct a figure and two dates in your reference on May 6th to my paper on aspects of economic reconstruction in New Zealand, read before the Dublin University Fabian Society. The State indebtedness in New Zealand, which in the year 1935 was £182 per head of the population, diminished under the Labour Government to £179 per head in 1937. Even after a year of war it was only three pounds per head higher than it had been in 1934, and in 1940 it stood at £196 10s.

In his Budget speech, 1941, Mr. Walter Nash stated that even since the war the price level in New Zealand had only increased 6½ per cent., and the latest official figures show that in 1943 it had only risen 13.4 per cent. since the outbreak of the war.—Yours, etc.,

There is no record of him in the "Dictionary of National Biography," and I would be obliged if any of your readers could supply me with information concerning him.—Yours, etc.,

FILM NOTES

BY OUR CINEMA CORRESPONDENT.

IN Destroyer Man (Adelphi) that grand actor, Edward G. Robinson, carries out great deeds of valour in the Pacific on board a vessel known as John Paul Jones II. The film has little originality, but a good deal of intelligent characterisation. Edward G. plays a gentleman known as Boleslawski; he is Chief Boatswain's Mate aboard the aforementioned J. P. J. II. He finds that nautical traditions have changed somewhat since the first World War; consequently his methods of maintaining discipline are in sharp conflict with those of the Second Boatswain's Mate, Michael Donohue (Glenn Ford), who has fallen in love with Boleslawski's daughter (Marguerite Chapman). To make matters worse, "Boley" is "demoted," and Donohue is appointed in his place. Heavy sentiment and a rather hackneyed screen play do not improve matters either. This film has had a bad time of it all round, and it is hardly fair to sit in judgment upon it. The supporting Henry Haunts a House is too silly to be more than mildly amusing.

The Lady of Burlesque (Capitol) is an adaptation of Gypsy Rose Lee's complicated "crime and sex" story, "The G-String Murders." It is too involved to hold the interest consistently, but Barbara Stanwyck gives a clever portrayal of a strip-tease "artist." The American spoken by the characters in this film will be intelligible to advanced students only.

The Cat and the Canary (Carlton) is well worth reviving after only four years' absence from our screens. The plot—which does not matter half a whit—is one of the "corneyest" on the market, but Bob Hope's variations on the theme provide grand comedy entertainment. Henry's Little Secret (Corinthian) is another new Aldrich adventure. Its humour is a little crude, but quite robust. Under Two Flags, recently revived with much success at the Carlton, moves over to the Grafton this week. North-west Rangers (Royal) is a drama of "Mounties" and gamblers knee-deep in sentiment, but redeemed by a virile performance from James Craig as "Blackie" Marshall.

The Regal Rooms are reviving The Man From the Folies Bergère, with Merle Oberon, Ann Sothern and (God save the mark!) Maurice Chevalier. The music, clothes and humour combine to date this production.

AT OTHER HOUSES.

BAILEY, M.A., Litt.D., Sc.D., F.T.C.D., the Registrar, will take the chair at the meeting of the College Historical Society on Wednesday next, when the motion, "That this House approves of the Student Representative Council," will be debated. This should prove to be an interesting debate. The S.R.C. has now been in existence for almost two years, and has lately been active on the social side of College by running a most successful "hop" on Saturday last, which may possibly be followed by further S.R.C. dances. A wide selection of College students hold the view that there are too few informal dances held by College societies, and it is likely that these S.R.C. "hops" would meet this need. I notice that there will also be a S.C.M. "hop" on Thursday, May 18th, and the first posters have appeared on view in College for the only big dance that month, the D.U.E.S.A. Dance in the Metropole on May 19th. All this proves that the social side of College is by no means neglected.

Mr. M. C. Beausang, the Hon. Registrar of the University Philosophical Society, will read a paper on Thursday to the Society on "The Riddle of the Red Beard," which will deal with the ideas and the personality of Mr. George Bernard Shaw. G.B.S. will also be the subject of discussion at the meeting of the D.U. Fabian Society on Friday, when Mr. Felix Grendon will deliver an address on "The Political Creed of George Bernard Shaw." Mr. Grendon, who spent 20 years as a lecturer at Columbia University, New York, is a well-known authority on Shaw.

Last Thursday's performance of "Lady Precious Stream" by the D.U. Players at the Father Mathew Feis was welcomed enthusiastically by a large audience. Highest praise is due to the producer, Miss Elinor Mathews, and the leading actors and actresses — Mr. Derek Llewellyn-Jones, Mr. Jasper Cross, Mr. Tony Walsh and Miss Kay Miley. The result of the Father Mathew Feis competition is awaited with great eagerness in College dramatic circles.

The Bishop of Clogher will be the Select Preacher in College Chapel next Sunday.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT

SOME time ago mention was made in these notes of the society formed by graduates for the promotion of interest in the various arts. Since then the society has been responsible for organising several splendid lectures on various literary, musical and artistic subjects. What, however, has been rather disappointing is the fact that, although these meetings have been exceedingly successful in the sense that those who attended found them of the greatest possible interest, the audience has at no time been satisfactorily large. It is hard enough to bring to the notice of the average undergraduate that some particular function or meeting is being held, and it is to be presumed that the graduate is even more impervious to notices and circulars. For the purpose, therefore, of gaining publicity and consolidating its finances the Graduates' Society is holding a short dance this week.

The tennis club, which this year is under the captaincy of Mr. D. Nolan, is in full swing. Provisional rankings have been put up, and show that the club maintains most of its last year members. Entries for the annual tournament close on May 10th, and they should be lodged with Mr. John Blayney, who has been appointed tournament referee.

As befits it in the Easter Term, the S.R.C. is carrying on a quiet, though doubtless busy, existence. Another edition of the National Student is, however, pending, and comes again from the editorship of Mr. Adrian McConnell, who was responsible for the last number. The Director, Mr. Boden, is to be congratulated on instigating another issue relatively so soon.

Last Thursday was nomination night for the Law Society. As expected, the candidates for the post of Auditor are Mr. A. McMullin and Mr. E. Walshe. There is an unusually large number of nominations for the other posts, and for the Committee, and this, coupled with a long list of electors, is indicative of the healthy state of the Society. Public debate consisted of a legal debate on the Constitutional law suit of The State (Burke) v. Lennon, which was extremely well argued. The Chairman was Mr. Gerard Lee, barrister-at-law.

MR. DERMOT O'BRIEN'S attack on me at the annual banquet of the Women Writers' Club the other day will not go on Hansard. I beg your pardon—unanswered. ("Banquet" is good. Why don't they call their club "Cumann na mBanquet"?) The following is the press report of the words used by Mr. O'Brien:

"Things were censored mostly from the wrong point of view, said Mr. Dermod O'Brien, P.R.H.A., who remarked that if vulgarity could be censored it would do a lot of good. It was ridiculous to ban a book because of one passage. If the censors were acting wrongly they should be able to come forward and say why. He thought there must be someone behind the censors prompting them to do these outrageous things; and it was the duty of the Club to find out."

I can't help wondering what is meant by "vulgarity" in that context. Each man for himself condemns as "vulgarity" anything that is distasteful to his own exquisite mind. To call for the censorship of vulgarity is to invite a far more capricious regimentation of the public mind than can possibly obtain under the head of literary nastiness. Suppose you appoint My Lordship as censor of vulgarity. Here are a few intolerable vulgarities that would no longer trouble this most honourable Irish nation.

1. The Annual Exhibition of the Royal Hibernian Academy. Leaving aside a few exhibits of distinction, this show is very very vulgar. Middle-class ostentation could not go further. When I was in Leipzig I dealt with the pathology of this form of exhibitionism in my well-known monograph Der Paddy als Künstler.

2. All litherary "clubs," including the Women Writers' Club. It has never been satisfactorily settled whether women are people but certain it is that they are not writers. Conversely, if they are writers they are not women. Not true, however, that if one is not a woman one is necessarily a writer. (Self-conscious litherary coteries are wholly odious and really very vulgar.)

3. The mugs who know no Irish, but who choose to hint at enormous erudition by such atrocities as "an Dáil" or "an Taoiseach" instead of the Dáil, the Taoiseach. "We hereby protest against the treatment meted out to disabled brass founders who through no fault of their own are unable to fend for themselves and we hereby call upon An Taoiseach to summon a special meeting of an Dáil to consider the matter."

4. Gaels (all). Apart from everything else they are too pusillanimous for my taste. (Throws down pen, leans back, and begins to hum song "Where-e'er you walk, cool Gaels shall fan the glade. . . .").

5. The mugs who know little Irish and spell the O in their names Ua. (Why don't they go the hoe-log, prefix an e and become Seán Eau Seimisín?)

6. "Poets" (absolutely all). Did you ever meet that interesting foreign bard, Nascitur Nonfit?

7. Cute commercial boys who make a stack out of "religious" publications which have no canonical approbation.

Vulgarity, is it? Shure I could go on till this day week enumerating the vulgarities I would censor. And I may tell Mr. Dermot O'Brien that I will keep prompting the book censors according as my conscience dictates, whatever the damage to my purse and fair name. The censors are doing outrageous things, he says. Surely he doesn't expect them to be doing . . . inrageous things?

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

THE newly-elected President of the Royal Academy, Mr. A. J. Munnings, was, in accordance with custom, invited to lunch by King George during the week. Mr. Munnings has on a number of occasions expressed himself against the "modernistic art" tendencies in painting to-day, which destroy that fine craftsmanship and healthy vision on which great art is founded, and his term of office is being looked forward to with great interest. A great animal lover, he comes of old Suffolk farming stock, and was born at Mendham in 1878 at a time when the horse was still supreme, and even the safety bicycle had not yet made its appearance. Such an environment, the natural one for a painter of horses, no longer exists in any part of Britain. As a boy, he rode everywhere, even to church on Sundays, on a white pony.

After six years at Norwich School of Art he started a studio in his native village, and for some years painted horses, village characters, hunting themes and landscapes. Mr. Munnings next moved to Swainsthorpe, near Norwich, and spent six years painting ponies, gypsies and hunting pictures. London and Cornwall were his next ventures. During the last war his many studies of mounted officers revealed him to the equestrian and sporting world as one of the few artists who can put a man naturally on a horse. The famous picture "City and Suburban Day, Epsom Downs," purchased by the Chantry Bequest, and now in the Tate Gallery, was painted some twenty years ago.

Pay as You Earn

Revenue officials, after experience of the first month's operation, pronounce the new "Pay as you earn" system a great success. Almost the whole of the work which tax inspectors and collectors used to have to do is now done gratis by the employer, and the scheme has also the advantage that the chances of evasion are reduced to the absolute minimum. There is a danger, however, that in a few years' time, when a man asks what his wages are going to be, he will be concerned not with what his firm pays for hire, but with his net earnings and not with the income tax paid by the firm. He will want to know how many pounds will be in his envelope when he walks away from his work, and will lose sight of the fact that he is paying income tax at all. Then it will be the employer who will really pay the tax, because the worker will not see it and will forget about it. It will never enter his life or his calculations. Sociologists here point out that such a development would be a most unfortunate one and that steps should be taken to avoid it.

Building Societies Ready

The forthcoming amalgamation of the Leeds Permanent and the Woolwich Equitable Building Societies, with combined assets of over eighty millions, follows on the recent amalgamation of the Abbey Road and National, which have assets of eighty-two millions, and has been inspired by the belief that post-war conditions will favour schemes involving thousands of dwellings, instead of comparatively small building enterprises undertaken by individual building firms. These societies and the Halifax, which has assets of £129,000,000, expect to have an enormous field in satisfying the demand for the three and a half to four million houses which Britain will need in the ten years after the war. Great capital is also required because of the enormous rise in building costs, which have practically doubled since the beginning of the war.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Eggs in the Lilac

THREE weeks ago a wild duck stepped off the Grand Canal, walked deliberately across the road, and shot an egg into a citizen's lilac bush. She fussed around a little, tidying the house and laying a lid of ivy leaves upon the fruit, and then returned to the Canal to tell her drake that she was square with the future.

Every day, for twelve days, she came back to the lilac bush. Every day, for twelve days, there was another egg in the nest. She is now sitting on the eggs, awaiting the glorious uncertainty. Her flank is protected from the pavement by a foot high concrete wall, surmounted by iron railings. She hatches within six inches of discovery. Within another week she should be a mother.

Police Matter

Whenever a bird does something queer this department sees Mr. C. B. Moffat, of the Wild Birds' Protection Society. Mr. Moffat knows everything about birds' business.

Mr. Moffat says that the duck must be a wild duck, if she flies. (The duck does fly back to the Canal, taking off from the citizen's grass plot.) Wild duck usually build their nests in reeds. It is out of character for one of them to pick a lilac bush and a flower-bed; although they have nested before now along the banks of the Canal.

And Mr. Moffat also thinks that the duck's dozen should be reported to the police. Duck are protected under the Game Birds' Protection Act. Their eggs are valuable for this reason.

Poor Look-out

I told Mr. Moffat that a number of cats are in attendance around the nest, accurately connecting eggs with duckling mayonnaise. I suggested that the eggs might be removed to the Zoo. "You could do that," said Mr Moffat, "but, in the first place, I don't think that the duck would stay with the eggs if they were moved. And, in the second place, there are a lot of rats in the Zoo who destroy the nests."

I conveyed these facts to the citizen upon whom the eggs have been laid. I told him that it did not seem to provide a lot of continuous fun to be born a duckling. And I suggested that the best thing that he could do was to bring his bed into the lilac bush, and nest along with the duck. Somebody will have to keep off the cats. There is, after all, the Game Birds Protection Act; and they are his eggs.

Dublin to Cork

A thin sheet of typewritten paper has appeared in my rack. It carries neither name nor address. But hear what it says:—

It says: "We Corkonians must protest against the injustice to our ancient city. You are running two trains each week, carrying 1,080 Dubliners to our city, while we are allowed only two trains each week, carrying only 580 Corkonians to your city of Dublin. This is a difference of 500, which will mean that Cork's population—which was 100,000—will now consist of 1,080 Dubliners, less the 580 Corkonians who have gone to Dublin."

Bear with this thin sheet of paper. It realises it has become bogged in your city, and Cork city, and 500 and 1,080, and Cork's previous population. It clarifies everything with a small sum.

580—Corkonians gone to Dublin.

1,080—Dubliners in Cork.

100,500—Cork's total population.

Now there can be no mistake. The trend is plain.

Ready Reckoner

You can see, without difficulty, that something of rather frightening importance is on the way. Further:

"If Cork's population of Corkonians is to fall at the rate of 580 every week, while at the same time its population of Dubliners increases by 1,080 every week, it will mean that at the end of the year the situation will be:

30,160—Corkonians gone to Dublin.

56,160—Dubliners in Cork.

126,000—Cork's total population (1945).

"You will see," says the thin sheet of paper, "that it would not take very many years for our city of Cork to have more DUBLINERS than CORKONIANS!"

The sheet of paper flings the capitals at you like an accusation. Then it says: "If you like to find out how long it would take for all Cork's population to have gone to Dublin, and all Dublin's population to have come to Cork, work it out for yourself."

I won't. I would not like to know.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE
without Calomel—and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of vim and vigour. The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxative helps a little, but a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 1/3 and 3/-.
